STATEMENT OF MOST REVEREND NELSON J. PÉREZ
REGARDING THE DEATH OF GEORGE FLOYD

The hearts of Americans across the country are joined together in collective mourning following the tragic, disturbing, and unnecessary death of George Floyd. In the name of the people of the Archdiocese of Philadelphia, I express my prayerful condolences and join with all who are struggling to cope with this heavy burden of sorrow and grief.

Recent events in Minneapolis are a stark reminder that the vile evil of racism has not been stamped out in this country. Rather, it has been resurgent in communities throughout our land for the last several years with old wounds being painfully ripped open time and again.

Racial hatred has no place in our world, including here in the United States, or in the hearts of people. Every life is a precious gift from God. Racism is a mortal sin and an attack on that gift. All of us share a responsibility to bring an end to this evil and to do so in a way that seeks justice and peace. The perpetual cycle of pain and anguish must end.

May God give all of us courage and solace as we work together for social justice and to preserve our land as one of equality and opportunity for every citizen. May He bring peace to Minneapolis and to our Philadelphia region and may He rekindle within each of our hearts true love and respect for our fellow human beings.

Religious Leaders Council Members Statement on the Death of George Floyd

As a community of multiple faiths, we collectively struggle to breathe as we mourn the death of Mr. George Floyd and all the deaths this tragedy represents. That no mercy was afforded to Mr. Floyd during his dying moments is atrocious. We denounce the judgment Officer Chauvin used to pin Mr. Floyd's neck to the street with his knee. It is cruel and inhumane that Mr. Floyd's dying cries for his deceased mother and pleas that he could not breathe in the moments before his death went unanswered. This is an appalling repeat of the deaths that result from racial bias and policing done wrong.

We hold that all life is sacred and stand in solidarity that black lives matter. We support policing done well and all the officers who strive to serve and protect the community and preserve trust and integrity. We support the tireless efforts of individuals and organizations that are built on the principles of love, peace, understanding, and healing. We acknowledge the defeat that people striving for peace and unity feel in the wake of such loss of life and recognize the many efforts to repair and rebuild the lives of people impacted by violence in all of its forms.¹

As a community of communities, we call upon our faith leaders to lead the way in building bridges across traditions. We support non-violent action to reform structural and systemic impediments to justice and equity, while unequivocally condemning violence and the destruction of property. We encourage the planning of virtual gatherings that include the participation of people from neighboring faith traditions as a way to see the other and hear the other as part of the beloved community.

We call upon those in political leadership, the news media, as well as leaders of non-profit, corporate, and sacred institutions to join in efforts that lead away from polarization and towards a unity of purpose that fosters a shared future. This will uphold the dignity of each person as created in the image of G-d. This will foster conditions to deescalate tensions and build understanding and healing.
